GYPSY QUEEN IN COURT FOR TELLING FORTUNE.

Declares She Will Carry the Case to the Highest Court If Necessary.

Mme. Patience Stanley, queen of the gypsy camp which for the last twenty years has been located at Nostrand avenue and Crown street, Brooklyn appeared to-day before Magistrate O'Rell-ly in the Flatbush Police Court to answer a charge of violating the law prohibiting fortune telling.

"I don't believe that fortune telling can be stopped," she declared. "I have told the fortunes of the best people of Brooklyn, including such men as Magistrate Steers and Naval Officer Kracke. and have never been molested before. Why should I be annoyed now?"

The evidence on which a warrant for her arrest was issued by Chief Magistrate Kempner was obtained by Mrs. Isabella Goodwin, a police matron. Mrs. Goodwin told the court that after she had crossed the gypsy queen's palm with silver, Mme. Stanley told her she would live to a ripe old age, but she would have lots of trouble; her daughter would not appear and the stanley are the stanley of the stanley are ter would run away, and the girl's flight would tend to quarrels between Mrs. Goodwin and ner nushand, which would end only when the girl returned, happily married.
